Composite Mills of Sponge Iron etc

i512. SHRIMATI VEENA VERMA:
SHRI SHEO KUMAR MISHRA:

Will the Minister of STEEL AND MINES be pleased to state:

(a) whether Government propose to allow private companies to set up their own composite mills consisting of sponge iron units, arc furnaces and rolling mills alongwith captive power units; and

(b) if so, by when Government propose to issue guidelines in this regard?

THE MINISTER OF STEEL AND MINES (SHRl M. L. FOTEDAR): (a) and (b) The existing guidelines for setting up of electric arc furnaces and rolling mills in the private sector are under review. The setting up of sponge iron units has been delicensed with effect from March, 1985. However, industrial undertakings that fall within the purview of the MRTP Act are required to obtain industrial "ITcences for this purpose.

Midi Steel Mills

1513. SHRIMATI VEENA VERMA:
SHRI SHEO KUMAR MISHRA:

Will the Minister of STEEL AND MINES be pleased to state:

(a) what is the projected gap between demand and production of steel by end of the year 1994-95 and the manner in which it is likely to be met; and

(b) whether Government proposes to allow private sector to set up midi steel trills basesd on electric arc furnaces steel making during Eighth Plan, if SO, what are the details?

THE MINISTER OF STEEL AND MINES (SHRI M. L. FOTEDAR): (a) and (b). The latest study by the National Council of Applied Economic Research on the demand and availability of steel in the country shows that there is a surplus of long products upto 1995 but a continuous deficit of flat products. The gap between demand and availability of fjnisiied steel in flat products upto 1994-95 has been estimated to be 1-17 million tonnes. Government are re-viewing the startegy for increasing steel making capacity in the country with a view to closing this gap.
